Many Home Dinners and Luncheons Precede the Dance.

DEBUTANTES' GALA DAY

Dances Are to Be Known Next Season as the Junior Assemblies.

It was a gala time for debutantes yesterday, with coming out receptions, luncheons, dinners and dances. The most important dance was the first for this season of the Junior Cotillons, which by another year will be reorganized under the name of the Junior Assemblies. It was held, as usual, in the grand ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton. The guests, Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, Mrs. Pierre Mall and Mrs. Archibald Rogers presiding at the entrance to the ballroom. The dancers, including debutantes of this and last season, came from many dinners, and there was general dancing until midnight, when supper was served at individual tables in the smaller ballroom. There was a brief period of dancing after supper, some of the dancers then leaving for the charity dance at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mrs. Rogers Bacon explained that the house at 38 West Thirty-ninth street will have a restaurant open to the public on the ground floor that will seat 100 persons in winter and 200 in summer, when tables will be set in the garden connecting with the two houses in Thirty-eighth street. Prices will be reasonable and the money will be changed daily.

The floors above will be open only to Vacation Savings Fund girls who pay $1 a year house tax. The second floor will be given up to a clubroom for dancing and meetings. The announcement that the third floor will have a reception room where girls may meet their escorts for the evening or entertain men callers was greeted with prolonged applause. The top floor will have a large lounge room with couches for the girls to rest upon at noon and bathtubs for their use at any time.

Mrs. Bacon explained that any girl who found the evening journey to her home a long one after work might bring her party gown in a bag, have her bath and her dinner and meet her escort without leaving the building. This announcement was also received with enthusiasm.

But the immediate object of the rally, the great Christmas party in the Grand Central Palace, was not forgotten, and the place of honor on the platform, Kate Douglas Wiggin Riggs, who told about the party, put the first contribution into its padded coat, and from Mrs. Elbert H. Gary, fifty dollars from Henry Bond was the next, $10 from Mrs. Henry Seligman the third and $50 from Mrs. J. P. MacLachlan of O'Neill-Adams, the fourth.

Mr. MacLachlan spoke on "How the Man Higher Up Feels About Collective Presents," and said they robbed him of his independence. He knew that after Christmas the people who had made him miserable with a gift would come to him with an "I clipped it" expression and ask for a receipt.
